JUNE 2010

Blitz'n at Jenny Dixon

The more intelligent members of our club (yes, we do have 'em) sat fairly wide and picked off some nice, but slightly fat leftovers...

As a few members were heard to remark, "gee you could be in the middle of nowhere".

Well, having never been in the "middle of nowhere" I (and a few others) were not too sure where exactly it was that we were, until it was pointed out by the more worldly among us that "nowhere" was Jenny Dixon Beach, to be precise.

Having been duly educated we proceeded to discuss the merits (and demerits) of where to set up our judging position. The choices, on the top of the cliff overlooking beach and reef (binoculars needed for spotting), or trekking the 121 steps (yeah, I did count every one of the suckers!!) Down to the beach.

With a minimum of gear. Seems to be becoming a habit but once again I stuffed up by somehow locking the keys in the trailer with most of the rashies still inside. I reckon this was Balko's fault as he did distract me at the wrong time. With a little help we sorted the problem and retrieved the rashies thereby totally saving the day.

As the less fitter (read older) among our group definitely didn't fancy a long steep walk with boards after every heat the beach was voted in.

The lighthouse and "Magoos Beach" were the only visible signs of habitation once down the steps (did I mention the #^<+% steps) and I guess the overall feeling was that you could have been in any isolated area almost anywhere.

A longish (5km) paddle out saw some pretty clean and exciting 3-5 foot rights for those brave souls willing to sit close in toward the reef. Outstay your time on the inside and the occasional clean up would make a mess of your best plans though!

Paddling back in after a heat was a chore in itself with one of the gnarliest shore breaks seen in some time. Timing had to be spot on! I did hear mention of one less than aware member (no names of course) that having bravely managed the paddle back after a fruitless search for waves drifted a little further north than was advisable.

He was kindly and quietly advised that the rocks were not a good place to come in so a further paddle to the south was deemed necessary before hitting the beach and getting tangled in his leg rope.

This was a pleasant and peaceful spot to spend a sunny winters morning, protected from the wind and with very few free surfers or beach goers. I think the jury is still out as far as an ideal contest area goes but, hey, beggars can't be choosers and there was very little else on offer. We take and accept what we can get on the day.

With a little cunning I managed to be first to the top to set up the BBQ as this does take some time. I also managed to avoid lugging other sundry items up the steps too. (Did I mention the @!/?#*%+ steps).

Our very own "mountain man", (no jokes, please), Clive Thomas made at least four trips up and down the steps with his own two boards and gear and a substantial amount of club gear to boot. Many thanks Clive and to all others who assisted in gear totage.

The BBQ was set up in a nice grassy area in the park, and the usual excellent repast dished up by Mark N and helpers, with the raffle drawn, results announced and another super CCMB day came to an entirely satisfactory end with the southerly and cloud arriving just before pickup.

Great timing as the morning had given us almost perfect winter conditions.

On a different note and I will stand to be corrected on this if my info is wrong, but I believe that congrats must go to Terry Byrne, John Fraser, Dave Witt, Hugh and Mia Daugaard and Beau Nixon who I hear have made it through to the Aussie titles.

More congrats must also go to Hugh Daugaard who I also believe took out the Cadet division with a first place. A mighty effort by the young man.

A great job all round by our CCMB members and we wish them all the very best for the upcoming Aussies.

It's cool out there so keep the steamer on. All for now, J.O. (Sir.)

Eds rave!

Always an adventure up North and June was no exception. As Jimmy counted the steps and Clive did his best Sherpa impersonation, you looked around and it was just us on the beach, magic! So where we surfing? Surely not the Waimea shore break I asked. Marshall pointed seaward, yes I can see ships and half way in between there is a wave (little bit of exaggeration).

Well 462 and half paddles later and I am out the back (did I mention the amount of @!/?#*%+ paddling??!!!!). It was great fun and Marshall breathed a sigh of relief, it was pumping out there so the threat of an entire column in the newsletter dedicated to him and a Gumby Nomination for his choice of venue was brushed under the carpet.

No Guts No Glory! And if it was a poker game, he came up with a handful of Aces.

The Magoo was a great success and we now have a total of $14,538.00 raised. With the lions club still to throw in their bit, what a TOP EFFORT!

Thanks again to all the sponsors and hard working people behind the scenes.

Bit of official business can everyone make sure they have paid their CLUB FEES this month. See our beloved treasurer Greg Byrne with any outstanding Monies.

Our next major Event will be the Central Coast Open in November, so the planning is about to commence, yep that's right, it takes that long...

CAN YOU HELP? We need fresh ideas and volunteers to fill positions and sponsorship is one that needs to kick off shortly.

As Jimmy mentioned the State Titles have been represented well by the Central Coast, and the CCMB members have enjoyed great success. The official finals results are:

Hugh Daugaard	Cadets	1st
Mia Daugaard	Jnr Girls	4th
Dave Witt	Over 40s	3rd
Terry Byrne	Open 9s	4th
John Fraser	over 45s	3rd
Danny Bond	Over 60s	1st

Congratulations to you all! I am sure we will have a scoop on the State Titles.

We are at Avoca this month, so see you all 7.00am at the Shark Tower.
